INTERNATIONAL TRADE

Dear Students,

With globalization and its technological impact, international trade has developed more than ever in its history, and the importance of foreign trade in the economy and changes in payments resulting from employment. The ability to request leakage produced within the country's borders, anywhere in the world, brings about connections between many sectors and aimless operations. The globalization of competition, standards, need options, information and power resources requires that the human resources to do this job be at a globally competitive level.

Our university, located in the Tarsus district, which is equidistant to two important cities of Turkey such as Adana and Mersin in terms of both production, foreign trade and customs clearance, offers you the opportunity to combine theory and practice thanks to its proximity to the port and close relations with the sector. The Department of Foreign Trade, located within the Vocational School of Tarsus University, carries out educational activities with its young and dynamic faculty, courses based on theory and practice, and selective courses for personal development. Theoretical courses in the department, which provides four semesters of education; It is supported in a practical way with internship practice and industry practice courses. With this system, prominent people in the region and the sector can gain knowledge and become a guide after graduation.

The place where our department graduated; import and export, logistics, transportation, customs services, production, etc. They can work with their savings and establish their own businesses. It is also employed in the public sector such as the Ministry of Commerce, the Ministry of Transport and Infrastructure, and the Ministry of Industry and Technology. Those who want to continue their education must take the Vertical Transfer Exam administered by ÖSYM and study Banking, Labor Economics and Industrial Relations, Economics, Business Administration, Business Management, Logistics, Capital Market, Political Science and International Relations, International Relations, International Business and Trade, International. It has the opportunity to transfer through Trade and Logistics and many other licenses. As a family at Tarsus University, we would be happy to see you among us in the foreign trade department.

Love and respect
