HUMAN RESOURCE MANAGEMENT

Dear students,

Tarsus University Vocational School Design Department, recognizing the significance and value of design in society and human life, aims to cultivate future designers with its meticulously crafted educational program. Our primary goal is to educate individuals who can observe, analyze, and draw conclusions about the changing and developing information age society, who are conscious of ethical and aesthetic values, and who possess design knowledge and technical expertise.

Throughout the two-year, four-semester associate degree program, we strive to equip our students with the necessary equipment and artistic skills to meet the demands of evolving technology and the increasingly challenging professional landscape. Our programs, designed to foster applied skills, are delivered by our team of experts in the field, encompassing art, social science courses, and workshop studies. To achieve these goals, our department is equipped with the necessary technical infrastructure, including workshops, laboratories, photography equipment, and other visual tools and materials.

On behalf of Tarsus University Design Department, I extend a warm invitation to join our esteemed student body and wish our graduates every success in their professional endeavors.
