Dear students,

In today's conditions where constant change is experienced, the importance of management and organization is increasing. It has become almost a necessity for organizations that have to continue their existence under these conditions to use their production resources effectively, efficiently and economically.

The focus of the management and organization department is to serve the training of individuals with the necessary competencies to solve the problems that may be encountered in organizations. The education provided in our department has a wide range that will create value for you, our students, regardless of your future career choices and the business organizations you will be involved in. For this reason, we attach importance to both discipline-based and interdisciplinary education and research. With the theoretical training we offer, we support your willingness to learn and contribute to the field of management.

Our main goal is to train qualified personnel equipped with the appropriate knowledge and skills needed by the business world through theories and practices in the field of management.

Tarsus University has Logistics and Human Resources Management programs within the Management and Organization department. Our programs aim to train intermediate staff who contribute to public and private sector institutions and organizations in carrying out their activities effectively and efficiently, who will create value in the organization they work in, who have an innovative and creative perspective within the framework of a contemporary management approach, who attach importance to differences, and who can meticulously apply management strategies and techniques. designed.

Best regards
