FASHION DESIGN

Dear students,

Being aware of the meaning and value of design in society and human life, Tarsus University Vocational School Design Department aims to train the designers of the future with the training program it has prepared for this purpose. Those who observe, analyze and make inferences about the society they live in in the changing and developing information age; The main goal of our department is to raise individuals who are aware of ethical and aesthetic values, have knowledge and technical equipment regarding design.

During the two-year, four-term associate degree education, in our department, our students are provided with practical skills through art, social science courses and workshops with our expert staff in the programs we have prepared to raise competent individuals in terms of equipment and artistic skills that meet the developing technology and the increasingly difficult business life. Our department has the necessary technical equipment, workshops, laboratories, photographic equipment, etc. to achieve these goals. There are visual tools and equipment.

As Tarsus University, Department of Design, I invite you to be the valuable students of our department and I wish our graduate students to be successful in their professional lives.
