POLITICAL SCIENCE AND PUBLIC ADMINISTRATION

Dear Students,

Our department is dedicated to educating individuals who are aware of local, national, and global issues in the social, political, and administrative spheres and who can generate alternative solutions to these problems. We aim to cultivate graduates equipped with the qualities sought by the public sector, private sector, and civil society organizations, while upholding ethical values. By nurturing individuals who are inquisitive, analytical, and possess research skills, we strive to contribute to our country's advancement towards the level of contemporary civilization.

Political Science and Public Administration graduates gain comprehensive knowledge and expertise in the fields of politics, administration, law, local government, urbanization, and environmental studies. They can pursue career paths in various public institutions, including the governorship profession, administrative judgeship, inspectorate, and expertise positions. Additionally, graduates can leverage their education to advance in decision-making processes within local governments, multinational corporations, and civil society organizations. Furthermore, the department offers postgraduate and doctoral programs alongside the undergraduate program, providing students with the opportunity to continue their academic careers within our department.

With a fundamental principle of educating qualified individuals, our department comprises an academic staff with high institutional loyalty and openness to innovation. We invite you to join our Political Science and Public Administration department family in Tarsus, one of Anatolia's historical centers, with our friendly, sincere, and enthusiastic academic staff who follow current issues and contribute to theory and practice.
